

To whom it may concern at the FCC:

We have been informed that you would like to make changes to the Indiana no-call legislature that is currently in effect. Those of us who have opted for this service beg you to reconsider. The proposal that you have created to replace the current legislature is much weaker than the current no-call policy in Indiana. I used to receive between 5 and 10 unsolicited phone calls from various telemarketers an evening. The calls were rather disruptive to my evenings at home. Since I registered with the Indiana no-call list, I don't get any calls. I am a medical student and having uninterrupted evenings to study at home are crucial to me. Please don't change the Indiana legislature. Doing so would worsen the lifestyles of everyone who has registered for this service.
